Fowlerville Police Dept. learns latest CPR protocols at recertification class

Members of the Fowlerville Police Department learned the latest CPR (Cardio Pulmonary Resuscitation) protocols at a recertification class held at the fire hall on Thursday, April 13. Conducting the class were Bob Feig and Annette Villerot of the Fowlerville District Fire Department.

"The officers and administrative assistant at the police department learned the proper CPR techniques for infants, children and adults," said Feig. "We also instructed them on how to handle choking emergencies, and they were recertified in the use of AED devices."

The three-hour class included the use of mannequins and the special equipment officers have in their police vehicles.

Feig noted that the recertification is generally done every two years. "We needed to do an update because the CPR protocols were changed last year," he said.

Right with Reason

A week ago Saturday, April 15th, marked the 152nd anniversary of the assassination of the 16th President of the United States, Abraham Lincoln. For as long as I can remember, "Honest Abe" has been one of my favorite Presidents. In turn, the American Civil War has also been one of my favorite periods of American history. As a kid, I found it incredibly difficult to imagine a time in America's history when we could have been so divided that we were willing to go to war against each other to settle our differences. Any civil war is a drastic and tragic event, and the War Between the States, as the South has called it on occasion, was arguably one of the darkest points in our short existence as a country.

Incredulously, the United States of America had not even been around that long when it was shattered into two warring sides. As Lincoln himself put it, the founding of the nation had taken place just "four score and seven years ago." This relatively young country was suddenly faced with the possibility of being split into two separate governments very hostile to each other. This was the challenge presented to Abraham Lincoln.

He was faced with a very difficult and complex conundrum: how do you work to unify a divided nation while maintaining your convictions? Ideologically, the Union and the Confederacy were vastly different, and I'm sure that the idea of getting the two sides to ever agree on anything seemed nigh impossible to the newly elected President Lincoln.

This is a problem that we all face, albeit on a much smaller scale, on an almost daily basis. I have extreme doubts that there are any two people in this entire world who agree exactly the same on every issue. On major issues? Sure. That's how we can have lobby groups, clubs, charities, organizations, etc. However, we are a far too varied people to completely agree on all things all of the time.

Does that mean that our differences are as drastic as the issues faced during the Civil War? Most of the time, no.

Regardless, they are matters with which we must deal virtually every day. Abraham Lincoln understood this. He knew that if America was to ever be unified again, then the two sides would need to be willing to cooperate. When we can agree on an issue, we should work together to accomplish it. When we disagree on an issue, we should work to develop a solution that is right.

Does that mean that Lincoln abandoned his principles to ensure that it happened? Absolutely not! And neither should we. What's right is right, and it should not be shunned or twisted. However, that does not give us an excuse to be rude or ignorant. I have stressed over and over again the importance of knowing not only what is right but also why it is right. If we know why it is right, then we should never have to fear sitting down with someone who disagrees with us and having a discussion about it, nor should we lower ourselves to being rude or insulting. When you know the facts, there is no need for that, and you can confidently explain your position. You can demonstrate right with reason.

Fowlerville Alumni Association seeking donations to fund scholarship program

In 1974, officers of the Fowlerville Alumni Association establish the FHS Alumni Scholarship Program. Monies are raised yearly to enable the organization to present scholarships to members of the current Fowlerville High School graduating class.

During the 40-plus years of the scholarship, well over 125 young people have been recipients of this scholarship. The organization hopes to continue this tradition. Again this year, the Alumni Association will present four scholarships at the Senior Awards Night in May. Recipients are also recognized at the annual FHS Alumni Banquet which his year is being held on Saturday, June 10, at the high school cafeteria.

The scholarship fund is maintained through the many donations received in memory of loved ones who either were graduated from Fowlerville High or who maintained strong connections to the school such as a teacher, coach, bus driver, or supporter. Please feel free to make donations in any amount at any time during the year.

Some send donations yearly, while for others it is a one-time

Donations should be sent to Coralene (Jackson) Bloss, 6346 Burkhart Dr., Howell MI 48855. Checks should be made out to the Fowlerville Alumni Association. To be recognized in the 2017 program, a donation should reach Coralene Bloss by May 10. Your generosity will not only help maintain the scholarship program but will help a graduating senior with college expenses.

Thank you to all who have supported us in the past and who will continue to do so in the future. We wouldn't be who we are if it wasn't for you.

Animal Shelter to participate in statewide 'Empty the Shelters' Event

The Livingston County Animal Shelter (LCAC) is joining animal shelters across Michigan in an effort to save the lives of shelter pets during an adoption event being held on Saturday, April 29 from 11:00 am until 4:00 pm. 'Empty the Shelters' is made possible by the BISSELL Pet Foundation because every pet deserves a second chance.

"We are very pleased to be able to participate in such a wonderful event once again," says LCAC Director Andy Seltz. "Our shelter pets are wonderful and deserve a second chance to find a permanent home."

Each pet adopted during the 'Empty the Shelters' event will be spayed/neutered and up-to-date on age appropriate vaccinations. The only fee adopters are required to pay is the cost of a dog license. The adoption process simply requires a pre-approved adoption application which must completed and returned to the shelter no later than 5:00 pm on Thursday, April 27. All applications, which may be picked up at the shelter anytime during business hours, are subject to landlord approval if renting and verification of current vet records for those who already have one or more pets in the home.

"We are very excited to be participating in Empty the Shelters and are looking forward to a successful event where all of our pets can find their forever home," said Christy Peterson, LCAC Shelter Coordinator.

In addition to a new best friend, families who adopt during 'Empty the Shelters' will take home an AdoptBox TM as the Shelter's thank you for choosing adoption. AdoptBox TM was created with three goals in mind: to help adopters best understand pet wellness and the veterinary attention they need; to provide healthy treats, toys, and tools that will be useful for owners and enjoyable for their new pets; and just in case, to provide great BISSELL pet products to help owners clean up after their pets, making the transition to pet ownership a little easier. AdoptBox TM are available while supplies last and contents may vary.

In 2016, BISSELL Pet Foundation found homes for more than 2,800 pets by partnering with nearly 90 shelters during 3 separate Empty the Shelters events.

For more information on how you can adopt your new best friend at this event, call the Livingston County Animal Shelter at 517-546-2154,e-mail them atlcac@livgov.com, or visit the shelter in person at 418 S. Highlander Way, Howell MI, 48843.

Classes planning to meet to celebrate their graduation anniversary should contact either Cindy (Ruttman) Krebs at 223-8747 or treasurer Ed Helzerman at 223-8783. Ticket prices will remain the same as in recent years: $15/advance and $20/door.

Fowlerville High School's "ATHLETES" OF THE WEEK

Jud Scott

Varsity Baseball

Nate Leonard - Senior third baseman and pitcher Nate Leonard has played a huge role in this seasons early success. The Gladiators have won six straight, including sweeps of St Johns, Corunna, and Portland. In the doubleheader against St. Johns the Glads took both games in walk-off fashion. Leonard, crazy enough, factored heavily into both of those walk-offs, driving in the winning run in the bottom of the seventh of game one, and then scoring the winning run in game two. Leonard was 3-for-3 with the key RBI and a stolen base in game one. He also pitched Fowlerville to a 5-1 victory over Corunna, firing a complete game, yielding just one run on six hits and seven strikeouts. Leonard leads the Gladiator offense with a .522 batting average on the season.

Eric Fritz - Senior left handed pitcher Eric Fritz continues to dominate on the mound and at the plate for the Glads. Fritz is 3-0 on the bump this year, picking up huge wins against Hartland and Portland. Eric boasts a 0.69 ERA on the season with 21 strikeouts in 20 innings pitched while only allowing 2 runs. As the cleanup hitter in the Glads lineup, Fritz is hitting .333 with 9 runs batted in and seven runs scored.

Every week through the season two Fowlerville H.S. athletes will be saluted for their efforts. Athletes will be selected by the coaching staff and Athletic Dept. for that "Winning Deal" on a new or used car or truck, see Dick Scott Motor Mall,

This week's column is just plain trivia! Michigan trivia. Sometimes it is just fun to read and see how much we actually know about our great state of Michigan.

Michigan is a rich and diverse state. No matter where you live in Michigan, you are not far from the beauty and bounty this great state has to offer. The Great Lakes give our state uniqueness-citizens and visitors alike have the opportunity to enjoy sunrises from the eastern shore and sunsets from the western shore. There are both rocky shores and sandy beaches

Our forests offer scenic beauty as well as snowmobile trails, hiking trails, parks for picnicking and camping, hunting areas and nature preserves. So let us dive in and see what you know!

Did You Know: That Michigan was the first state to develop roadside parks with picnic tables? That the telephone was first introduced in Michigan in 1877 on an experimental basis, just one year after it was displayed at the Centennial Exposition in Philadelphia. That the Native Americans believed Arch Rock, a natural limestone formation on Mackinac Island, was built by spirits as a gateway to the Island. The Arch Rock stands 149 feet above the water and has a span of 50 feet.

General Questions: What is the state fish? Bluegill, Walleye Small Mouth Bass or Brook Trout? Which of these animals does NOT live in the wild in Michigan? Wolverine, Wolf, Eagle, Black Bear, Elk, Moose.

Michigan's Outdoor Creatures If you are a bird watcher, camera bug or just an all-around nature lover, you will enjoy trying to spot some of the 233 species of birds that breed in this state. Some even stick around for our blustery winter!

Fish: Michigan's abundant waters nature 154 different species of fish. Coho salmon are the wonder fish of the Great Lakes.

These are just a few of the fascinating facts about our great state. Come on in and check out a Michigan book or two. It is amazing what you can learn from a book! (And I am not talking about Wikipedia!)

Till next week: "Some people strengthen others just by being the kind of people they are."

is when you'll receive 100 percent of your monthly Social Security benefit. Taking benefits early can lock in a lower rate, while waiting can increase the monthly benefit. In 2017, if you're eligible for the maximum benefit and start claiming at 62, you'll receive about $2,153 per month. If you waited until you were 70 this year, you'll receive about $3,538 per month.

You can use the SSA's Retirement Age Calculator to see how taking Social Security early, or waiting, can affect your

You might have to downsize and make lifestyle changes. Moving to an area that has a significantly lower cost of living could mean the difference between living with financial challenges and having a comfortable retirement.

Some people look for less expensive areas close to family members or even an expat community in a different

If you decide to stay in the same area, a smaller home can lower your property taxes and maintenance costs. You can also take any profits from the sale of a larger home and pay off debts or build an investment portfolio.

Housing aside, there are many ways to downsize your lifestyle, such as selling a vehicle, shopping at secondhand stores and cutting back on monthly entertainment expenses. One helpful part of aging is you'll be eligible for all sorts of new discounts and benefits. Look online for lists of stores or organizations that offer senior discounts. You can use the National Council on Aging BenefitsCheckUp to see which benefits you might be eligible for based on your ZIP code and personal information.

Bottom line: Many aging Americans don't have enough savings to fund their lifestyle through retirement. Deciding when to take Social Security benefits and where to live are two of the most pressing questions on the horizon. No matter what you choose, you may need to supplement your income with part-time work and look for ways to significantly lower your cost of living to enjoy retirement.

How Medicare Covers Therapy Services

Dear Savvy Senior,

Can you explain how Medicare covers physical therapy services? I'm a new beneficiary, and would like to get some treatments for my back.

Need Help

Dear Need,

Medicare covers a variety of outpatient therapy services including physical, occupational and speech therapy, if you meet their coverage criteria. Here's how it works.

Medicare Coverage

To get Medicare (Part B) to help cover your physical therapy, it must be considered medically reasonable and necessary, and will need to be ordered or prescribed by your

You can get these services as an outpatient at a number of places like a doctor's or therapist's office, rehabilitation facility, medical clinic or a hospital outpatient department.

You also need to know that Medicare limits how much it pays for outpatient therapy services in one calendar year. These limits are called "therapy cap limits." In 2017, Medicare will cover up to $1,980 for physical and speech therapy combined, and another $1,980 for occupational therapy.

But be aware that just like with other Medicare covered services, Medicare will pay 80 percent (up to $1,584) of your therapy costs, after you meet your $183 Part B deductible. You, or your Medicare supplemental plan (if you have one), will be responsible for the remaining 20 percent until the cap limits are reached. After that, you'll have to pay the full cost for the services.

Extra Therapy

If, however, you reach your cap limits and your doctor or therapist recommends that you continue with the treatment, you can ask your therapist for an exception so that Medicare will continue to pay for your therapy. The therapist must provide documentation that these services are medically necessary for you to continue. If Medicare denies the claim, you can appeal through the Medicare appeals process – see Medicare.gov/claims-and-appeals.

If approved, Medicare has an exception threshold of $3,700 for physical and speech therapy combined, and $3,700 for occupational therapy. If your therapy cost exceeds these thresholds, Medicare will audit your case, which could lead to denial of further services.

No Coverage

If you choose to get physical therapy on your own that's not considered medically necessary or prescribed by your doctor, your therapist is required to give you a written document called an "Advance Beneficiary Notice of Noncoverage" (ABN). Medicare Part B will not pay for these services, but the ABN lets you decide whether to get them.

Therapy at Home

You should also know that Medicare covers home therapy services too if you are homebound and eligible to receive home health care from a Medicare-approved home healthcare agency. To learn more about this option, see the "Medicare and Home Health Care" online booklet at Medicare.gov/ pubs/pdf/10969.pdf.

Medicare Advantage

If you are enrolled in a Medicare Advantage plan (like an HMO or PPO), these plans must cover everything that's included in original Medicare Part A and Part B coverage. But sometimes these plans cover more, with extra services or an expanded amount of coverage. To find out whether your plan provides extra coverage or requires different copayments for physical therapy, you'll need to contact the plan directly.

Practical Money Skills What Does Retirement Look Like If You Haven't Saved?

By Nathaniel Sillin

The picture of retirement that many of us have is a postwork period filled with travel and plenty of relaxation. It's a time when you can finally take up a new hobby, sink into the pile of books and enjoy more time with family and friends.

The reality is that many haven't been able to save enough money to enjoy this idealized retirement. What might their retirement look like?

You may be working for longer than you expected. Many people undergo a period of "phased retirement" and either reduce their hours or start a new part-time job after retiring from a full-time schedule. Even those who don't have a financial need may find that they value the activity and connections work brings to their lives. Without savings, continuing to work might not be a choice, but you can still look for fulfilling opportunities.

Continuing within the same profession part-time or taking on related consulting work could be the most financially rewarding route, if it's an option. Alternatives such as customer service positions with a retailer are popular among some retirees. There are also Internet-based jobs that allow you to work from home.

Social Security could be your sole source of income. Retirees who don't have a pension or savings and stop working may find that Social Security is their only income. Your Social Security benefit depends on when you were born, how much you've paid into the program, when you start to take benefits and whether or not you're eligible for a government pension.

Once you start receiving benefits, you'll lock in your monthly amount, although it will adjust to account for inflation. Therefore, deciding when to start taking Social Security benefits is important, as it can impact your income for the rest of your life.

Claiming benefits once you reach your full or normal retirement age, 65 to 67 depending on when you were born,

Discerning the Times

Last Monday I woke up to the sound of lawnmowers, leaf blowers and other power tools. From these all too familiar sounds, I was able to reason that the landscapers were doing their spring clean-up of our condominium complex. Sure enough, after I got up and looked outside I could see men working on the grounds, getting the lawn ready for its first cutting. As I stood on my back porch enjoying the warmth of the sun, I noticed the trees were budding, the grass was greener than I've seen it for several months, some of the perennials were already in bloom while an assortment of other plants were just poking their heads through the soil. It was a clear and unmistakable sign that spring is here and well underway.

Suddenly, as if someone whispered in my ear, I was reminded of a passage of scripture from the gospel of Luke. Then He said to the multitudes, whenever you see a cloud rising out of the west, immediately you say, 'A shower is coming'; and so it is. And when you see the south wind blow, you say, 'There will be hot weather'; and there is. Hypocrites! You can discern the face of the sky and of the earth, but how is it you do not discern the time? Luke 12:54-56.

Jesus was aware how adept the people had become in their ability to discern the weather, but He was also aware of how they were ignoring what the scriptures taught about the coming

Almost everyone I talk with today is in agreement that we are living in the end times, but the multitudes are living as if this world is going to last forever and that there is no consequence for living a life that is not totally dedicated to obedience to God.

But I don't want to focus on the multitudes. This week I want to give a shout of praise and welcome to those 50 people who crossed over the bridge and prayed the prayer to accept Jesus as their Lord.

I heard a powerful testimony last week during the weekend services at our church. A young woman prayed earlier this year to accept Christ as her Lord and Savior and on Easter Sunday, she crossed over the bridge that symbolically illustrates the gap that separates us from God, to publicly declare her faith and allegiance to Jesus Christ. What a moving and exciting time it was as I watched one person after another make their way to the front of the church and cross over that bridge. I want to share with you an email I got from Pastor Mark.

"I am amazed and humbled as I read through the cards today of people's commitments to Christ. We had a total of 50 individuals that committed their life to Christ in our 4 services. Of the 50 –2 of them were returning to Christ after a long period of time away. This means 48 were first time commitments.

I was blown away by some of those that walked the bridge. They have been in our church for years. And according to their cards this was the first time they have made a commitment.

He is Risen Indeed! Celebrating what Christ has done can't wait to see what He is going to continue to do!"

Imagine, 50 new members into the Body of Christ. I received several other emails from various members of our church, many of whom are so soft spoken that I was a little surprised to hear from them. But each one of them said the same thing, "Wow!" "Amazing!" "Incredible!"

What a joy to be a part of this Body of Christ!" It was one of the most moving, inspiring and motivating worship experiences I've ever had the privilege of witnessing.

Praise God to the 50 new members of our Christian family. We welcome you with love, and we look forward to walking with you as you embark on a whole new way of life.

For these new 50 people, whether we are living in the "end times" or not, it doesn't really matter because their final destination is secure. But for others who have for whatever reason neglected to accept Jesus' plan of salvation, I say to you, "Wake up, before it's too late.

The Bible teaches us in 2 Timothy Chapter 3: But mark this: There will be terrible times in the last days. People will be lovers of themselves, lovers of money, boastful, proud, abusive, disobedient to their parents, ungrateful, unholy, without love, unforgiving, slanderous, without self-control, brutal, not lovers of the good, treacherous, rash, conceited, lovers of pleasure rather than lovers of God—having a form of godliness but denying its power. Have nothing to do with such people."

I would have to say that based on everything that is happening in our community, in our nation, and all around the world, we are closer to the second coming of Christ than we are to the first. But why wait until the trumpet sounds? Why wait until it's too late? Now is the time to accept Christ! Now is the time to make the commitment to become a loyal follower of Jesus and say "yes' to Him.

There's not another decision you have to make in this life that will impact your life and your eternal destiny more than this one. Remember, to do nothing is the same as saying, "No."

Consumer protection

Consumers should be on the lookout for scammers, bogus charities and items such as credit card skimmers. With improvements in technology, such as the ability to purchase many goods and services over a computer, we don't even have to leave home for scam artists to target us. Consumers must pay attention to many things to protect against would-be scam artists.

The best thing consumers can do to protect themselves is to use common sense. Keep all of your internet passwords updated regularly. Never open any emails from an unknown sender or click on links in a suspicious email. Scammers often create official-looking emails to persuade people to click a link that will download software that can gain access to your personal information.

With tax season wrapping up, IRS scams are on the rise. Now more than ever, you should be on the lookout for those who would try to scam you by pretending to be the IRS. Ways to spot a scam include receiving unexpected phone calls or emails that request a tax payment without having received a written notice. Another easy way to spot an IRS scam is if they ask for a specific payment type, such as with a gift card or prepaid debit card. Always be sure to call the IRS directly to confirm that you do not owe taxes before ever paying.

My office offers a Consumer Protection Resource Guide that contains everything you need to know about consumer rights and Michigan law, such as how to protect yourself from consumer fraud and how to take legal action. If you would like to receive a guide, please contact my office at the information listed below.

Finally, if you are dealing with a consumer protection issue or would like to report a scam, contact Michigan Attorney General Bill Schuette's office at 1-877-765-8388 or via his website at www.michigan.gov/ag. At his website you will also find up-to-date information on scams targeting consumers in Michigan and further ways to protect yourself from would-be scammers.

As always, if you have any questions or need information, or would like to receive a copy of the Consumer Protection Resource Guide, please contact my office toll-free at 855-JOE-HUNE or email my office at SenJHune@senate.michigan.gov and my staff will be happy to assist you. My website, www.SenatorJoeHune.com, is also a good resource for information.

Julie Beach read a story to third graders during 'March is Reading' Month at Kreeger Elementary. She brought along one of her miniature goats to assist. Her daughter, Maria Beach, who is in Tanya Phillips class helped contain the goat during the reading.

Miniature goats visit Kreeger students during 'March is Reading Month'

Reading is part of the normal school day for students in third-grade classes of Tanya Phillips and Lindsay Feig at Kreeger Elementary. But recently the children were treated to a very special visit from Julie Beach and her Mini Silky Fainting Goats.

"They came to read to our class during March's Reading Month," said Tanya Phillips. "Julie's four children attend Fowlerville schools. I have had the privilege of having three of their children in my class. Each time I have had one of them, as I do this year, she brings in these special goats to read to my students."

The Beach family operates Jubilee Farms where Julie raises and sells these animals. At present, the farm has 20 Miniature Silky Fainting Goats. But, being a former teacher, she also uses her miniature goats in different ways to help young students.

She travels to various school districts with these special goats and reads to classes. Recently, a school purchased two goats from her and are creating a special home for the animals in their school atrium. The students will read to them and learn to take care of them.

"Julie also published her own book "Mini Silkies" as she felt there wasn't much information in a children's format about these special creatures," noted Tanya. "She gave this book that she created to both my class and my teaming partner, Mrs. Feig's class as well. She also always presents a book that she reads to my students as a gift to keep in our class.

"It is always a special treat having her and these goats visit," Tanya added. "My students learn so much about these goats each time she comes. They also enjoy getting to pet them when she is finished. Her website is pretty spectacular and a must see as well! www.jubileegoatfarm.com."

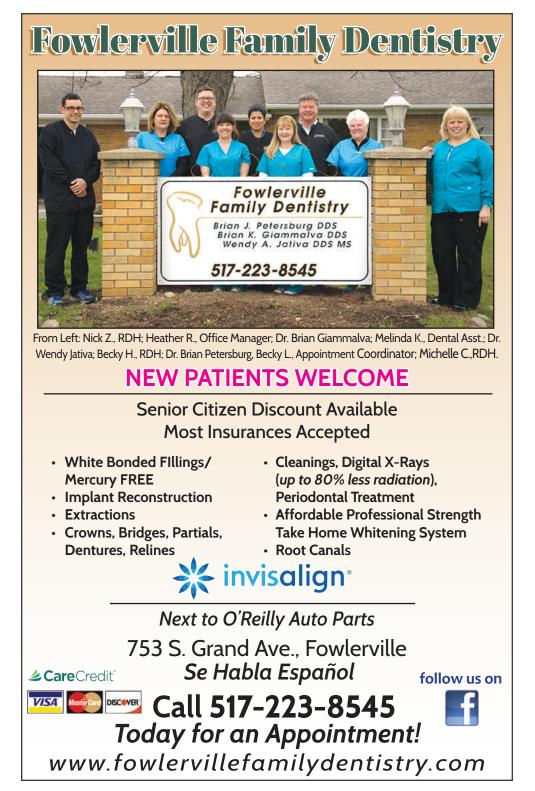

The third graders and their teacher were also invited to attend the "Mini Silky Jamboree" on May 6 from 1-4 p.m. for

"Troll Bridge Building," "Goat Art," "Snacks," "Read with Mini Silkies," "Plant a Pasture," a "Free Raffle," "and much, much more."

Fowlerville area farm raises unique breed of goat; planning special event

By Julie Beach

Jubilee Farms is home to 20 Miniature Silky Fainting Goats. Mini Silkies are small, have a long silky coat, and carry the unique fainting gene. These goats are calm, gentile, and docile. Their companionship with humans reminds me of the long recognized bond between people and dogs. For example, the goats run to visitors for attention, like to be pet, and even go sledding with our children.

I wanted to share this awesome part of the Mini Silkies with the whole community. And, being a former public school teacher and an educator at heart, I saw an opportunity to promote a love for reading when introducing people to the goats. Initially, I began taking a few of our Mini Silkies to local Farmer's Markets and let children come in and sit down and read alongside the goats.

That went very well, and led me to offering to bring the Mini Silkies into classrooms. Teachers were happy to have these special guests, and saw that the kids loved reading to the goats. There were even several struggling readers in their classrooms who were suddenly comfortable reading out loud, once they were reading to the goats. For me, the coolest part of the experience was seeing the children who read better to the goats than they ever had to any human in the classroom!

The Mini Silkies have paired with education so well that a school district in Western Michigan has purchased two of Jubilee Farm's Mini Silkies to live at the school full time. They will be a part of both the reading program and the food and nutrition program. What an awesome opportunity for the children and the goats!

With the goal of sharing the joy brought by the Mini Silkies, as well as the joy of reading, we offer an annual "Mini Silky Jamboree". This year's event will be on Saturday, May 6, from 1-4 p.m. This is a free event that offers families an opportunity for some good old fashioned fun...reading to goats, playing outside, creating art, and learning about Mini Silkies.

Our barn will be open and people will get a chance to pet and see our award-winning herd. We breed our beautiful goats and sell them to show and as pets. We show our goats around the United States with our kids and have a wonderful time promoting the breed and meeting new people. Our goats have been sold across the country and even overseas.

In addition to seeing the goats at the Mini Silky Jamboree, visitors can experience self-guided stations. Each station is themed around a book that has a goat in it. At each station there are several copies of the goat themed book and an activity based on the book. This year we are featuring at least eight different books. For example, at one station, children will be able to make and take their own troll bridge home with them. This is themed around the book, The Three Billy Goat's Gruff. At a different station, featuring the book Gregory the Terrible Eater, kids will use their imagination "to make their own healthy food" out of play dough. Kids will also have a chance to plant a pasture, build a farm, play goat dominoes, or read under the book tree. Where else can you read a book about a goat to a goat!

The farm is located at 9782 West Allen Rd, Fowlerville, between Gregory and Nicolson Roads. Everyone is welcome, and can come and go as they please.

The Village of Fowlerville office, the Fowlerville Police Department, and the Fowlerville United Brethren Church were honored at the Livingston County Sheriff Office's annual awards ceremony for their assistance during the I-96 freeway back-up in December. The ceremony took place last Wednesday, April 19, at the Livingston County Public Safety Building in the Putnam Auditorium.

On Dec. 8, 2016 a sudden snow squall in the area created icy road surfaces and resulted in a 53-car pile-up that closed the westbound lane, near the Fowlerville exit, for more than 12 hours. The pile-up resulted in three deaths and 11 injuries along with dozens of stranded motorists.

The on-duty police officers assisted the Sheriff deputies while the Village office opened its doors for the motorists, with staff serving them coffee and donuts while they waited to be picked up by family or friends. The church also provided help during the day.

Certificates of Appreciation in Recognition for Outstanding Service were given to the Village of Fowlerville and the Fowlerville United Brethren Church by Sheriff Michael Murphy, while the police department received an award for Professional Excellence.

Senior Spotlight--Lance Chrisinske

By Julia LaRue

It's Friday under the lights and as the Webberville's varsity football team runs onto the field, among them is Number 28--Lance Chrisinske, a senior, who received allarea honors in football for two years in a row.

"Lance will be remembered as a friend and a leader," said Webberville's Varsity Football Coach Todd Coe, Sr. "He was one of the biggest reasons for using the saying (family) when we all got together at practices and during games."

Lance Chrisinske has been attending Webberville Schools, since kindergarten. He has made good friends and even greater memories. He is the son of Thomi and Brian Chrisinske and has two sisters, Logan, a seventh grader, and Dani who graduated from Williamston.

Chrisinske has participated in many activities at Webberville High School, including football for four years, basketball for three years, track for one year, and has been a member of the Webberville FFA for four years. For two years, Chrisinske has also attended the AIS Diesel Mechanics Program through Eaton RESA for heavy equipment operation and repair and maintenance.

"Lance is a genuine, kind, hard-working individual," said Webberville's FFA Advisor Colleen Scott Keiser. "He has a bright future ahead of him."

Through FFA, Chrisinske earned a State Silver Award in the State Broiler Contest, his State Degree and a Gold State Proficiency Award in Landscape Management.

"I watched him develop from a shy, young person into an energetic, outgoing person," said retired Agriscience Teacher William Wheeler. "I have enjoyed working with Lance, and I have found him to be very sincere and knowledgeable about many topics."

Chrisinske encourages underclassmen to "live life to the fullest and work your hardest at what you are doing," adding "Keep your grades up-- if not, you'll regret it, and most of all have fun while you're doing it."

After high school, Chrisinske is considering attending either attending Baker College for the Auto Diesel Institute or Michigan State University's Turf Management program.

"Keep with the family plan like we had this year in football and you will go a long way in life," said Coach Coe of Lance.

Local student receives WMU's top undergraduate honor for 2017

Regan H. Elzerman, a Fowlerville High School graduate, is among the 50 students in Western Michigan University's 5,900-member senior class to be named a 2017 Presidential Scholar.

The annual Presidential Scholar designation is the highest honor WMU can bestow on an undergraduate. The award goes to the most outstanding seniors in each of the University's academic schools, departments and specialty programs.

Only the highest caliber of students receive the award. They are selected on the basis of their general academic excellence, academic and artistic excellence in their majors, and intellectual and artistic promise.

This year's scholars were recognized during the 37th annual Presidential Scholars Convocation, held on campus March 28. During the event, the students received certificates from two University dignitaries: Dr. John M. Dunn, WMU president, and Dr. Suzan F. Ayers, Faculty Senate president.

The convocation, which also celebrates the overall excellence of the University's students, includes a program and closing reception. The event is co-sponsored by the Office of the President and the Faculty Senate.

The 2017 Presidential Scholars come from across Michigan as well as other U.S. states. Some of them graduated from WMU in December 2016 and several more will graduate April 29, during spring commencement exercises. They are listed by state, with Michigan recipients appearing first, then by hometown. Their biographies reflect information obtained early this year.

Elzerman is the Presidential Scholar in Engineering Design, Manufacturing and Management Systems. She is majoring in engineering management technology and expects to graduate in April 2017.

Following graduation, Elzerman plans to put her education to good use in industry. She began her career at WMU in the film, video and media studies program. After two years, she found her true passion was as an engineering management technology major. She is particularly interested in the area of process improvement because it allows her to combine her creativity and technical background to create more efficient and organized systems.

Elzerman is a teaching assistant for two engineering courses and has interned with Summit Polymers Inc. for almost two years. For her senior design capstone project in the engineering college, she is creating a cost-analysis tool for hand-held, battery-operated tooling in a production plant. The project, which is sponsored by Stryker Medical, will be presented at the 60th annual Senior Engineering Design Conference.

She has regularly appeared on the dean's list and serves as vice president of WMU's chapter of Epsilon Mu Eta, the national engineering management honor society. She also is an active member of the American Society for Engineering Managers student group. Elzerman worked on campus as a resident assistant for a year and a half, earning RA of the Year honors, and has been a residence halls office manager for the past two and a half years, twice being named Student Staff Member of the Year. She also competed for four years with the WMU Equestrian Club and served the group as vice president and president.

Livingston County Sheriff sergeant thanked for getting Marine to airport

By Steve Horton

A sergeant with the Livingston County Sheriff Department has earned the gratitude of a mother and son for assisting them after a traffic mishap that occurred Easter Sunday on I-96 near the Fowlerville exit. The gratitude, however, had little to do with the accident, itself, which—while unusual—would fall into the category of routine.

It was the rest of the story that caused her to contact the 'News & Views' early last week and share the details with the purpose of thanking this officer and to "honor" him for his act of kindness and consideration.

Some time between 9 and 9:30 a.m. on April 16 Marjorie Vizurraga was a passenger in a car being driven by her son, Arey. She is a resident of Ada, a suburb of Grand Rapids and her son, a member of the U.S. Marine Corps, had been home for a week on his pre-deployment leave.

"We had left home a little over an hour earlier and were heading east to the Detroit Metro Airport," Mrs. Vizurraga said. "Arey, who is the second youngest of my seven children, is stationed in Twentynine palms in California."

She added that she is a widow.

Being another hour or so from the airport with little traffic on the freeway that morning, missing the flight did not seem to be a matter of concern. But an unexpected accident changed that scenario.

"An object came out of nowhere, hit the hood of our car and smashed into our windshield, obliterating it and the rear view mirror," she said, adding that her son was passing a car on the left when the incident occurred.

"Somehow Arey managed to keep the car under control, slowed down, and found his way to the side of the road by looking out of an open side window" his mother noted.

"In shock, we both sat there for a couple minutes, smothered in glass and bird feathers and then checked to see if we were hurt," she said. "We both seemed to be OK, but didn't want to move because there was so much glass on and around us. I called 911, and we waited for help to come before we attempted to exit the car."

Sergeant Mike Nast was dispatched to the accident. Nast, who will observe his 20th year with the county sheriff department this August, said that he was driving on the westbound lane when he saw the Vizurraga vehicle on the eastbound side. "I got off at the exit and then back onto the freeway," he noted. "I saw the turkey as I was pulling up behind them."

The first order of business was to see if medical assistance was needed. Marjorie and Arey got out of the vehicles, brushed off the shattered glass, and indicated that an ambulance was not necessary.

"Sgt Nast then checked Arey's license," noted Mrs. Vizurraga. "When he saw that my son was a Marine, he immediately shook his hand and thanked him for his service. We were still not sure what had hit us, other than we knew it had feathers. Officer Nast said it was a turkey and that he had seen the fresh remains on the side of the road right before he pulled up to help us."

At that point, the likelihood of Arey missing the flight to California became evident. The car, with its damaged windshield, was not drivable and needed to be towed away. There weren't any nearby rental car places, and Ada was too far away with not enough time for a friend to pick them up.

Sgt. Nast contacted a local towing company to haul away the car and then, having learned of their circumstances, offered to drive them to the airport.

A turkey destroyed the windshield of the Vizurraga vehicle, ending their drive to Detroit Metro Airport. But Sergeant Mike Nast helped the young Marine complete his trip on time.

"I knew it would be a significant inconvenience for him to miss his flight," said Nast. "At first, the mother thought I was just taking her son, so she was getting ready to say her good-byes at the side of the freeway, then go with the tow truck. She mentioned having the driver tow the car back to her home. I didn't think that would happen, so I suggested that she could rent a car at the airport. She agreed to this option."

Sgt. Nast, who supervises his road patrol shift, noted that there were five deputies on duty that morning. "A main reason I felt I could offer this help was the confidence I have in the abilities and decision-making of my fellow officers on our shift," he explained.

Mrs. Vizurraga said that during the drive to the airport, she learned that Nast was a veteran of the Army.

"I loved hearing my son and him talk on the ride to the airport," she said. "We also learned that he had never even been to the Detroit airport."

As it turned out, the good-will gesture was not wasted. Sgt. Nast arrived at the proper terminal, helped unload the luggage, posed for a photo, and headed back to Livingston County while Arey proceeded to board his flight to California and Mrs. Vizurraga rented a car and drove home.

"What a nice and amazing man Sergeant Mike Nast is!" she said. "He went above and beyond any expectations. I can't thank him enough!"

MIKE NAST GREW UP IN FLINT, graduating from Flint Kearsley in 1993. That same year he began his duty in the U.S. Army.

"I was a military police officer and served at several bases stateside," he said. "I served four years of active duty and then was in the reserves for my final two years."

It was while in the reserves that he applied for an opening in the corrections division of the Livingston County Sheriff Dept., and started work there in 1997. He eventually transferred to the road patrol and was promoted to the sergeant position ten years ago.

Since 2005, Sgt. Nast has also been involved with the Tactical Response Team (the department's name for its SWAT unit) and recently took over as its tactical commander. He also serves as the Range Master, facilitating and coordinating the department's firearms training.

He, his wife, and two children reside between Howell and Hartland. When not working, Sgt. Nast said that he enjoys hunting and coaching youth sports. "I also like to target shoot, using both guns and bow and arrows," he added.

As for his assistance of Marjorie and Arey Vizurraga, he noted, "As soon as the young man stepped out of the car, I could tell he was in the service. The way he conducted himself and his appearance, it was like he was wearing a sign. I learned later that he had gone into the Marines right out of high school. He was being deployed to Okinawa when he returned to his base. I was happy we could be of help."

Activities to enjoy this Spring at Consumers Energy river hydros

Sites 12,000 Acres Offer Variety of Outdoor Pursuits
In the heart of the morel capital of Michigan, the land owned by Consumers Energy around Hodenpyl Dam near Mesick is open for those looking to harvest the tasty mushrooms that appear in Michigan only in the spring.

"Our hydro properties offer an abundance of recreational opportunities in the spring," said Rich Castle, Consumers Energy's natural resource administrator for hydro operations. "The areas with about 12,000 acres open to the public are in some of Michigan's most scenic natural areas along our properties on the Muskegon, Au Sable, Kalamazoo, and Manistee rivers."

A brochure titled "Get Closer to Nature" has recently been updated and provides details about year-round recreational activities at these sites. It's available free from http://www.consumersenergy.com/hydro

http://www.consumersenergy.com/hydro Consumers Energy at: www.consumersenergy.com/hydro.

Here are 7 suggestions for the outdoor-minded recreationalist this spring.

- 1. Camping Stay close to the morel hunting, fishing, other activities, or just enjoy the camping experience. There are more than 2,800 campsites associated with the Hodenpyl, Tippy, Foote, Alcona, Mio and Hardy dams. Camping is allowed only in designated camping areas.
- 2. Steelhead Fishing Steelhead have been in the rivers all winter waiting for spring to spawn. The chrome colored fish can stack up downstream of Tippy, Foote, Croton and Calkins Bridge dams, which are very popular with anglers especially on weekends. A fishing license and courtesy toward fellow anglers required.
- 3. Hiking –A nature trail paralleling the Muskegon River at Hardy Dam provides the opportunity for a 3-mile hike, where 26 tree species are identified with plaques. Endangered Karner blue butterflies may be spotted in habitat managed for them at sites at Hardy and Croton dams. More ambitious hikers may cross a suspension footbridge downstream of Hodenpyl Dam for a 20-mile trek where the North Country National Scenic Trail connects to the Manistee River trail.
- 4. Birding Bald eagles, numerous waterfowl, and other species of interest to birders such as pileated woodpeckers call Consumers Energy hydro property home. Loud and Cooke ponds on the Au Sable River offer the best chances to view rare, native trumpeter swans Consumers Energy reestablished in the late 1990s. Two Foote Dam locations – Footesite and Foote Tailwater – provide birding stops along the Sunrise Coast Birding Trail.

- 5. Canoeing There are quality paddling opportunities on all rivers that have Consumers Energy river hydros. Aficionados favor the 23-mile stretch between Mio Dam to Alcona Pond on the Au Sable River, a designated National Scenic River. The stretch is incorporated each July in canoeing's premiere international racing event, the Au Sable River Canoe Marathon. The use of life jackets is recommended.
- 6. Turkey Hunting Properly licensed hunters are welcome to try to call in a bearded turkey on more than 12,000 acres open to sportsmen and sportswomen along the Muskegon, Au Sable and Manistee rivers. Hunters should exercise caution in areas near Consumers Energy's hydrofacilities
- 7. Morel Mushroom Picking –Hodenpyl Dam near Mesick, the "morel capital of Michigan," is a popular area for keen-eyed mushroom hunters. The tasty fungi can also be found at other dam properties by those who know which habitats to explore. Do not pick or consume any mushroom without being certain it is safe.

Game 1: Fowlerville 4 – St. Johns 3

In Praise of Pragmatism

As you had watched the recent healthcare proceedings on Capitol Hill, imagine what things might be like if we lived in more functional political times. In particular, what if Congress were run by pragmatists?

It would not change the issues at hand. On the one side, you'd have the Republican majority in Congress, which for the most part believes that the healthcare system should be left to the private sector. On the other side would be Democrats who, to varying degrees, see an important role for government to play

What would change would be how the two sides reconciled their differences. Rather than maneuver the proceedings for political gain or worry first about their political bases, they'd be dead-set on a healthcare overhaul that improved the system and was politically sustainable.

I don't think our system can work without such an approach to our problems — healthcare and everything else. So what do I mean by "pragmatism"?

At heart it's a mindset, a preference for a practical, workable solution to problems. It recognizes the diversity of our country and the need for compromise, negotiation, dialogue, and consultation in order to reconcile conflicting interests and viewpoints. Pragmatists ask themselves how they can best navigate the differences, factions, and political frictions inherent in any substantive issue so that everyone can leave the table having achieved some gain.

Let's be clear that this is hardly an easy approach. On Capitol Hill, you work under intense scrutiny and pressure in a dynamic, always-changing, politically supercharged environment. You can't make the world stand still while you work through the problems.

And if you're trying to hammer out agreement, you have to keep the conversation moving; when a group or a participant threatens to walk out, you have to calculate whether you can get the votes you need without them. If not, you have to keep them at the table, even if it means nights that stretch into the early morning. And always, of course, you have to try to keep things as courteous and civil as possible.

You also have to be very careful of labels. When you're trying to solve problems, labels get in the way. I've had my share of fraught negotiations, and what I focused on most was trying to figure out whether people at the table wanted to solve the problem and advance a solution, not whether they were Republican or Democrat. And you're constantly counting votes, because you don't get anywhere without a majority of them.

So you have to pause, hesitate, weigh the situation, calm the passions, figure out what's achievable — and then decide whether or not what's possible is actually worth getting.

Because there are risks to pragmatism in politics. For starters, some issues should not be compromised: to my mind, they include basic values involving torture and the right to vote.

And the pragmatic approach tends not to produce dramatic breakthroughs; it's incremental, step-by-step, unglamorous work. It means downplaying ideology. This is difficult in these partisan days, yet I was always wary when I heard a fervent ideological speech in the middle of negotiations — it's an expression of principle, yes, but it raises the question of whether the person giving it is going to help you reach an agreement or not

Which is why you get a lot of criticism as a pragmatist. People inevitably accuse you of not doing enough or of giving away too much. You're often accused of abandoning your principles. You have to ask yourself what's really important in this negotiation, both to yourself and to the others participating: how much can you give to get support for that principle, how much do you have to give up, and is it all worth it?

Yes, indeed, I'd argue, because the country would implode without the pragmatists. The challenge that our political leaders face is how to get through the thicket of conflicting principles, interests and dogmas in a sprawling democracy like ours. All too often, politicians lock themselves into a position: they give a speech to loud applause, then another, and soon enough they have no room to maneuver. In the end they, too, often have to rely on the pragmatists to get things done.

Student of the Week--Gabbi Dolin

By Kelsey Mann

Congratulations goes out to this week's Student of the Week, senior Gabbi Dolin. She is the oldest of five kids and enjoys watching movies with them all. Her family consists of her mother, Nancy, father, Ben, and her siblings are C.J. at the age of 12; Griffon, age 11; Ashlyn, who is the age of nine; and finally the youngest being the age of 5, named Nash.

Her senior year schedule consists of Personal Living, Psychology, BST, College Prep English and two arts classes which are AP Art and Independent Study Art. Her favorite class is AP Art because she is able to create pretty artwork while being surrounded by friends. Her favorite thing about FHS is the fact that everyone here knows everyone, because of how small of a town it is. What she looks forward to most in her high school career is reaching graduation, even though she is going to miss her Art Squad dearly, and all the memories they created that became her favorite moments of her high school career.

Gabbi tends to watch Netflix often outside of school, and she also just began her new job at Taco Bell. After high school, she plans to go to Eastern Michigan University and major in Psychology. Her number one aspiration she would like to achieve in life would be to become a successful therapist in Ann Arbor. She would also love to visit New York in order to attend and admire the art museums.

Some advice she would like to give the underclassmen would be, "Fake it till you make it." Her favorite movie is American Beauty, Volbeat is her favorite artist, she loves the show Dexter and her favorite book would be The Giver. Her favorite quote is "Tomorrow will be kinder," because it states that everything will be fine, and tomorrow is another day to start over.

Her friends describe her as a "hardworking, fun, loving individual," adding that "She flies under the radar, but if you befriend her, it's a darn good decision." She describes herself as feeling special for being nominated Student of the Week. Congratulations Gabbi and good luck for the rest of the school year!

Ask the Michigan State Trooper

By Sgt. Michael Sura

In 1833, the City of Philadelphia established one of the first organized 24-hour police departments. In 1838, the city of Boston Police Department was formed and in 1844, the New York City Police Department was created. The oldest form of a State Police Department, and you can tip your hat to them, is the Texas Rangers. They were organized by Stephen F. Austin way back in 1823. The original force consisted of 10 men charged to protect settlers. Talk about no back up if you're in a pinch.

Why though do I mention all these great law enforcement agencies? Last week, on April 19, the Michigan State Police turned 100 years old. Governor Albert Sleeper created the Michigan State Police in 1917 with Colonel C. Vandercook as the first commanding officer. The original force contained five Troops of mounted, dismounted and motorized units, totaling 300 men. These 300 began the traditions that are still followed today, 100 years later.

Throughout our history the Michigan State Police has been called upon for many different tasks and to different locations to provide service. In the 1970s', Governor Milliken assigned the Michigan State Police to patrol the freeways of Detroit during a string of freeway crimes. In 2003, the Michigan State Police responded to Benton Harbor during a time of civil unrest in the city. We have been to Louisiana to help local authorities after hurricane Katrina struck the state.

In 2006, the Michigan State Police were called upon to assist in Detroit with Super Bowl XL and worked with local and federal agencies to ensure a safe environment for the game. In 2011, the Michigan State Police were again asked to assist the state of New Jersey after hurricane Sandy caused damage along the east coast. The Michigan State Police also provided assistance to the city of Cleveland when the Republican National Convention was held. You could say we get around.

The Michigan State Police has unique qualities as well. Troopers used to stay at the post year round unless you were married. To get married you had to ask the Lieutenant's permission. The State Police are the only police agency in the country with a red bubble light on top and a stop bar on the hood. If you see that light, you know it is a Michigan State Trooper.

All these things, this history, created what the Michigan State Police has become over the last 100 years, a leader in law enforcement. From 300 to 1300 hundred Troopers, from horse to car, from Marquette to Detroit, the core value of what this department is, its mission has never faltered. The Michigan State Police have provided a tradition of service through excellence, integrity, and courtesy for the last 100 years and will continue for the next 100 years.

If you have any questions or comments, please email them to askatrooper12@gmail.com, or mail them to Ask a Trooper, Michigan State Police – Brighton Post, 4337 Buno Road, Brighton, MI 48116.

Michigan House Report

By Dr. Hank Vaupel, 47nd District

This past week two bills I introduced moved through second reading on the House floor. The first is a bill to remove political party icons from Michigan ballots. These icons no longer serve a purpose and pose confusion to voters who think that circling the icon counts as a way to cast a straight-ticket vote. The second bill helps facilitate the safe delivery of newborns surrendered by their birth mothers by assuring the anonymity of the mother if that is her desire. I anticipate both bills going through third reading next week and to the Senate for further consideration. If you have questions about either of these pieces of legislation, please do not hesitate to contact me.

In Health Policy Committee this past week, we invited Easter Seals and emergency room physicians to give presentations. It was educational to hear their perspectives and I look forward to continuing to work with both groups as we create legislation throughout the term.

It was a pleasure to attend the Livingston County 9-1-1 Telecommunications Awards. Emergency operators play a very important role in the emergency response process and I'm so thankful for their service to our community. They do an incredible job of working under the pressure of emergency situations. Congratulations to all award winners!

This week is National Volunteer Week. We have so many fantastic volunteer organizations in Livingston County. I want to thank each and every one of you who take time out of your schedule to volunteer for the betterment of our community. Livingston County is a better place because of you!

I had the opportunity to visit the Kalamazoo Psychiatric Hospital on a tour hosted by the Department of Health and Human Services. It was interesting to see how a one hundred old facility can be utilized as a hospital to help some of our most vulnerable population that need assistance.

It was a pleasure to again attend the Michigan Township Association annual meeting where I had the opportunity to meet with some of our local officials and deliver a legislative update. If you know of a local organization that would be interested in receiving a legislative update from me, please contact my office to schedule a time.

Thank you to those who attended my office hours last week. I'll host office hours again next month on Friday, May 19 at the following times and locations:

- 2:30 to 3:30 p.m. at Fowlerville Farms, 941 S. Grand Ave. in Fowlerville
- 4 to 5 p.m. at Kahuna Coffee, 1836 Old U.S. Highway 23 in Hartland
- 5:30 to 6:30 p.m. at All Star Coney Island, 934 Michigan Ave. in Howell

No appointments are necessary to attend. If you are unable to attend but would still like to share a thought, concern, or idea with me, please contact my Capitol office at (866) 828-4863 or Hank Vaupel@house.mi.gov.

Michigan State Police to hold 2nd annual Citizens Academy, starting May 18

The Michigan State Police (MSP) Brighton Post is pleased to announce the second annual Citizens' Academy, which will start May 18 and end June 28. The academy will meet from 4:00-6:00 p.m. and will give citizens the opportunity to become familiar with the mission and operation of the MSP, understand the procedures troopers follow, increase their awareness of law enforcement's role in the community, and get to know personnel at the Brighton Post.

The first week of the academy will meet at the Brighton State Police Post on Thursday, May 18 at 4:00 p.m. coinciding with the Brighton Post's celebration of MSP's 100th Anniversary. A graduation ceremony will be held on Wednesday June 28. Individuals who are interested in attending the Citizens' Academy should contact Trooper Olivia Sivy of the Brighton Post at 810-227-1051 or via email at sivyo@michigan.gov to receive an application.

On Thursday, April 13, 2017, 30 students from Kreeger that sold $200 or more from the Great Lakes Fundraiser earned a limo ride to Wendy's and a free lunch. Fun was had by all. Mr. Miller went along for the ride too.
